In order to improve the early diagnosis of Klebsiella pneumoniae infections, a polymerase chain reaction (PCR) method was developed in this study. A 135 bp fragment of a specific DNA region of K. pneumoniae was amplified by PCR. The 135 bp amplicons from 10 K. pneumoniae strains belonging to different K serotypes, including type a is the major serotype in China, were detected. Clinical samples, including sputum, blood and urine, from 29 patients with other infections, only one (Clinical samples, including sputum, blood and urine, from 29 patients with other infections, only one (11%) had positive results. This PCR method was superior to routine bacterial culture methods in terms of lower cost and shorter time./* * Copyright (O) 2012 eXo Platform SAS. * * This is free software; you can redistribute it and/or modify it * under the Environmental Public License as * published by the Free Software Foundation; either version 2.1 of * the License, or (at your option) any later version. * This software is distributed in the hope that it will be useful, * but WITHOUT ANY WARRANTY; without even the implied warranty of * MERCHANTABILITY or FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE.
