A: You have a zero-width character in your s// line. I just ran this command and it worked fine: grep -o "granturismo5freedownloadfullversion Download With Full Crack." | sed -e's/(.*\)/1/' This tells grep to only print the lines starting with granturismo5freedownloadfullversion Download With Full Crack. In the sed command, the backslash has special meaning, so it's eating up your final forward slash. After applying that change, running your new command gives me "granturismo", "granturismo", "granturismo maserati", "granturismo mc", "granturismo mcs z", "Hawx 2", "Hawx 2", "Hawx 2", "Tom Clancy", "Hawx 2", "Tom Clancy
