PDF | In this competitive business world, one way to improve the profitability of an energy installation is to reduce operating and maintenance costs. One of the most important challenges in operation is to reduce the operating costs of the plant in low temperatures. The solution to this challenge should be to improve fuel efficiency, in particular, to reduce fuel consumption in cold weather. To date, for this purpose, there are two different approaches that can be used to generate electrical energy. The first approach is to use external heat, the second is to use the heat generated by the machine. To implement the first method is to install a heat generator on the roof of the building and heat the building with heat by utilizing the heat that is released on it as a result of its operation. This method, however, requires a lot of money for the construction of the building and its operation, in addition, it may not give the desired result. In the case of the second method This method, however, requires a lot of money for the construction of the building and its operation, in addition, it may not give the desired result. In the case of the second way to get more profits and make a profit, as well as to reduce the level of risk, you can attract the funds invested in the shares. In this case, you will receive a portion of the company's profits, because the company's shares will generate a profit equal to the profit that will be generated by the project. The yield from the sale of the shares can be quite high. However, the investor must remember that he is only a part-owner of the company, and if it will incur losses, he will also incur losses along with the company. In order to avoid incurring losses in such a situation, the investor should have enough time to sell the shares if they fall significantly in price, at a price that is higher than the price at which they are purchased. Otherwise, one may be left with nothing. Namely, with the securities that have fallen in value, not with the money in your account. In addition, you can lose your money on the exchange. But it is not all so sad. In order to buy a stock, an investor must: 1. have at least minimal experience of trading on the stock market. Otherwise, it will be difficult to understand how to act in any given situation. 2. have starting capital. To have a desire to invest in securities. 4. have patience. Stocks can go up in value for decades, or they can go down. Even if you wait years, nothing will work out if you don't have patience. That doesn't mean you have to sit around and wait for the stock to rise. You can sell stocks and buy others, thereby making money on the price difference. But if you wait for the price to fall, you just wait for the fall. 5. Have a good relationship with people. In order to make a profit, you have to have good relationships with people. Don't talk bad about people. Don't be mean to them. Don't be greedy, and don't say bad things about other people.
