Shop with confidence.Q: How to change how a class member pointer is dereferenced/accessed in a template member function I'm using a doubly linked list class as shown below. I want to provide the ability for the user to modify the first and last nodes of the list. I thought the best way to do this was to have a member function pointer (or class pointer?) to the first and last nodes, and a template member function to find the appropriate one. My problem is, I can't figure out how to make my function work. Here's the class header file: #ifndef DLL_H_ #define DLL_H_ #include #include #include "node.h"

template class List { public: List() { head = NULL; tail = NULL; count = 0; } List(List &d) { Node *temp = d.head; while(temp!= NULL) { append(79a2804d6b
